Midsumma Partnership Proposal 2026-2027 > beyond

Where pride is only the beginning - Midsumma x [Sponsor]

Midsumma is a year-round cultural organisation dedicated to supporting, developing, and elevating LGBTQIA+ artists and communities.

Midsumma creates a “queer” ecosystem as a micro labour market, through year-round mentorship, professional development programs, and inclusive creative pathways, including dedicated support for emerging artists and artists with disability. Midsumma invests in the long-term strength, visibility, and well-being of the community.

This ongoing work culminates each summer in the three-week Midsumma Festival, one of Australia’s most visible and impactful cultural celebrations, bringing these voices, stories, and creative outcomes to life at scale.

Together with YOU, alongside our communities, we have the opportunity to go further, not just celebrating how far we have come over Midsumma’s 40 years, but actively supporting our rich future, more inclusive outcomes, and keeping our stories and lived experiences thriving.

If we build this together, we can create something that extends beyond the festival moment, into everyday impact.

Because when we go beyond pride, something powerful happens... and we want you there to feel it too.

with pride,

Felicity McIntosh - Deputy CEO, Midsumma

Delivering real impact

Midsumma is more than a festival; it is a year-round platform that supports the health, well-being, and connection of diverse communities across Australia.

In 2026, Midsumma Festival reached 334,531 attendees, the largest audience in the festival's history, reflecting both scale and sustained cultural relevance.

But what matters most is not just how many people attend, it's who we reach, and the impact we have on their lives.

Together, we can help power a more connected and inclusive future.

Driving measurable outcomes

Midsumma engage with our audiences, and measurably improve wellbeing.

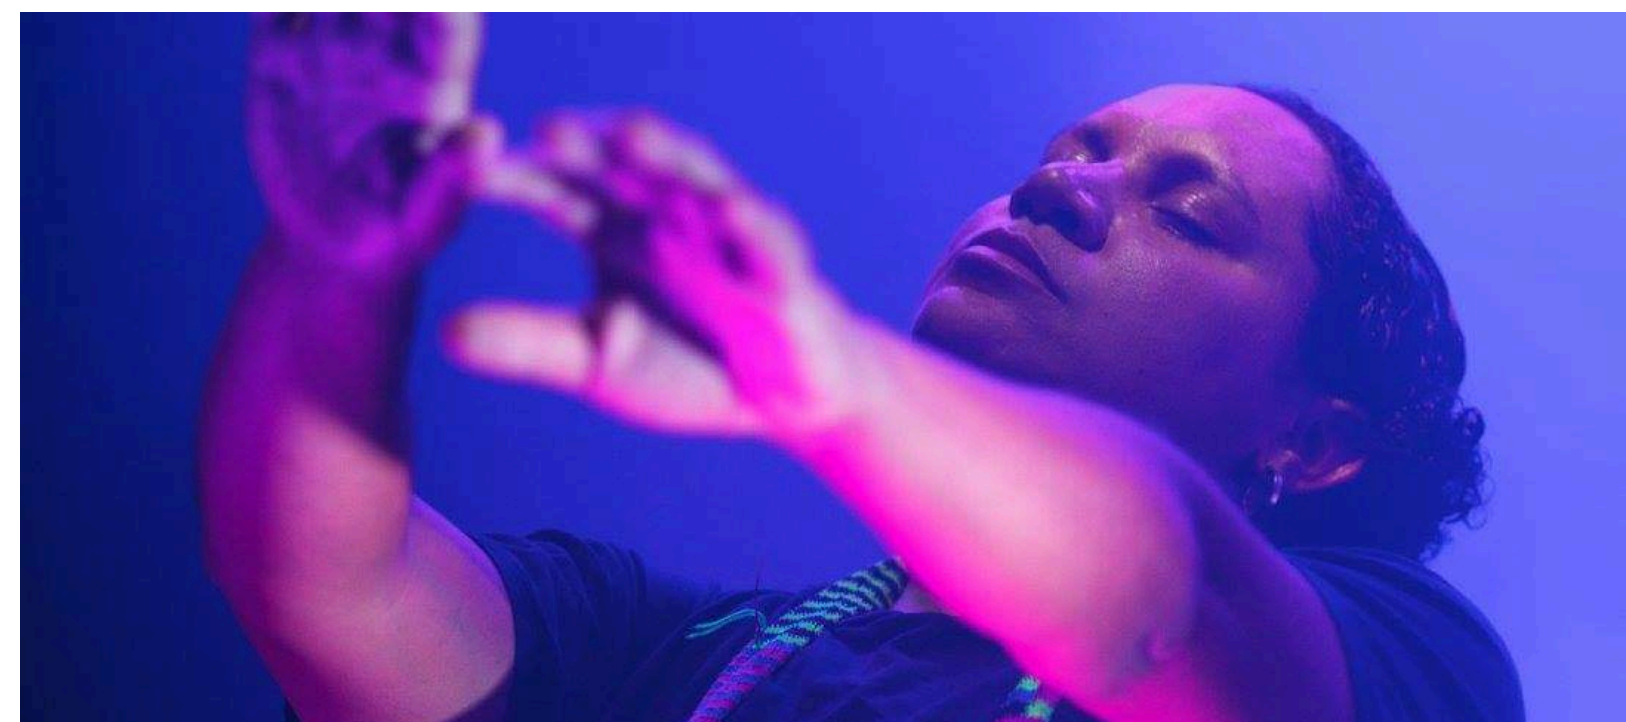

Independent research shows:

- 84% of attendees reported a direct positive impact on their personal wellbeing
- 92% felt more connected to community
- 96% felt safe and welcome
- 93% believe the festival creates ongoing positive local impact

These outcomes reflect the role Midsumma plays in:

- Reducing social isolation
- Creating safe, affirming environments
- Supporting mental health through connection, identity, and expression

Year-round community coverage

Beyond the festival, Midsumma invests in long-term community strength through:

- Mentorship and development programs for emerging LGBTQIA+ artists
- Dedicated pathways and commissioning for artists with disability
- Regional programming that expands access and representation across Victoria
- Platforms for underrepresented voices, including First Nations artists, queer artists of colour, and creatives with disability

This sustained engagement ensures impact is not momentary, but ongoing.

During the annual three-week festival, this work comes to life across 222 events in over 150 venues, creating visible, shared experiences of inclusion and connection.

Audience behaviour (2026 Culture Counts Report) reflects deep engagement:

- Attendees went to an average of 2.9 events each
- 35% attended 3–5 events, with many attending more
- 29% were first-time attendees, showing continued growth and reach

Repeat, meaningful engagement at scale.

The communities we support

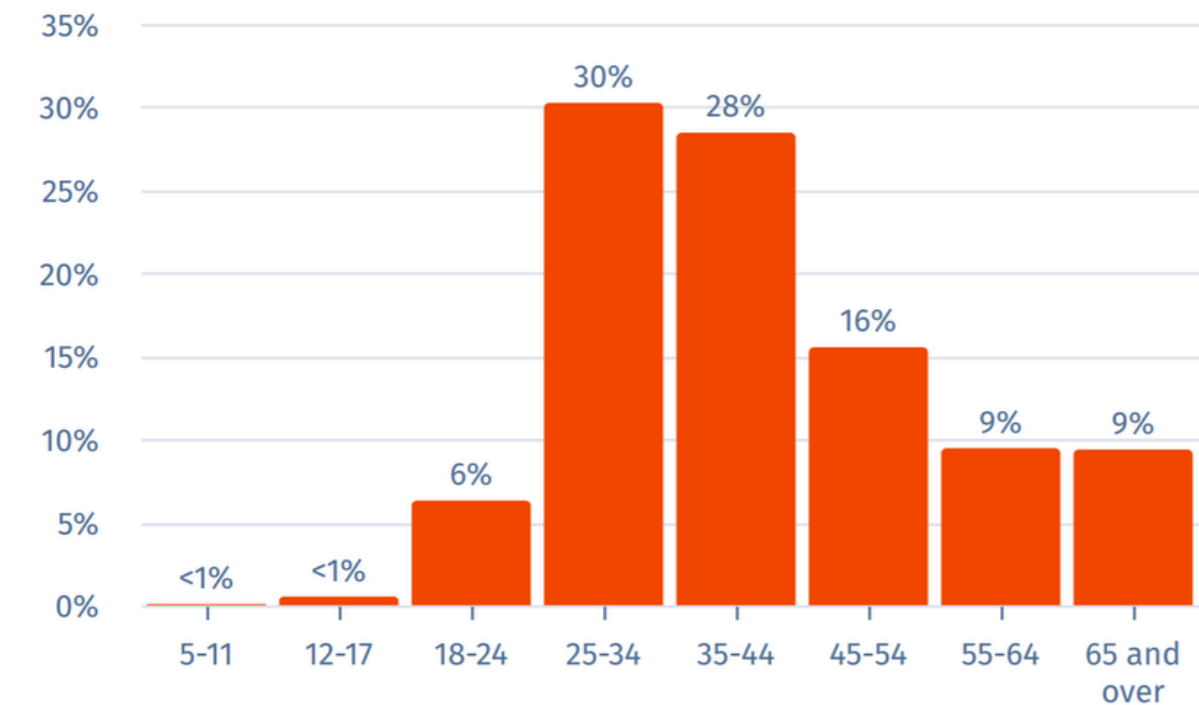

The diversity of our communities is what makes Midsumma so powerful - reflecting a broad, intersectional audience across life stages, identities, and lived experiences.

- 54% of attendees are couples and families
- Of those attending with children, 49% have children aged 4 and under, and 38% aged 5–11
- 25% identify as neurodiverse
- 19% identify as culturally diverse or people of colour (CALD/PoC)
- Over 50% identify as living with disability

This breadth of representation is what positions Midsumma as one of Australia's most inclusive and community-driven cultural platforms, creating space for people to feel seen, supported, and connected.
